THE LIBRARY OF ARCHITECTURAL DOCUMENTS

DRAWINGS of the best examples of the architecture of the past are indispensable in the practice and in the study of architecture. However, the books of plates containing such drawings are so costly that many architects are obliged to work under the handicap of an inadequate library and most draftsmen and students must depend entirely upon the books in the office or school, when they might derive much inspiration and development from studying such books at their leisure.

Knowing this condition and having found that the plate pages from old works on architecture published in PENCIL POINTS are appreciated by a large number of readers, the publishers of PENCIL POINTS have begun the publication of a series of reprints of old books of architectural plates under the general title of "The Library of Architectural Documents," with the purpose of making this material available for every one at as moderate a price as is consistent with a satisfactory presentation of the matter, not costly publications of limited appeal but a practical working library.

This reprint of a selection of plates from H. D'Espouy's "Fragments d'Architecture Antique," is the second book in "The Library of Architectural Documents." The original work, published in Paris under the direction of H. D'Espouy, professor at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, consists of two volumes of plates, one hundred in each volume. In preparing this work M. D'Espouy selected drawings from among those made by winners of the Grand Prix de Rome during their studies under the direction of the French Academy in Rome. M. D'Espouy's work constitutes a rich store of the finest drawings of the antique, the value of which is fully recognized by the architectural profession. The present reprint is the result of the careful selection of one hundred plates with a view to their usefulness to the architect and to the student.

The third, fourth and fifth volumes in "The Library of Architectural Documents" will be devoted to Gothic, Romanesque and Spanish architecture, respectively. Each of these reprints will consist of one hundred selected plates.

These will be followed by other volumes, rounding out the series into a reference library embracing a wide range of the best material presented in such a way as to meet the requirements of the architectural profession.
